What Am I Proud about:

This week I was able to modify CSS code for Login User and Register User page where the existing customers can log in to the page by giving their Email and password.

I was able to write code for Get a Quote which is quotation entry and save this information to firebase where we can store these values.

I was able to make changes to the sell car in HTML where I updated information for quote which is quote_form.html where I updated all the necessary information and connected it to the firebase.

Also made changes to the buttons in the pages, updated CSS to other webpages.

Also considering to make few changes if possible before the final presentation which will improve the interface and the functionalities of the webpage.
